Music at Whatsoever.

"Whatsoever Community Center supports the growth and development of families, by providing a variety of programs for children, youth, and adults to build a solid foundation for life."

Vol.1 No.10 May 24, 1937
The Whirling Notes Music Club

The newest club at the Community House is a most interesting one, and it has certainly been forging ahead by leaps and bounds. Friday, May 14th, the boys picked up banjos, guitars, harmonicas, violins, etc., and entertained the Yo Ma Co (Young Married Couples) club. They were so elated at receiving five cents apiece for ice cream cones, that they went to the Minstrel show to display their prowess with their instruments.

Saturday, after playing for the special program, at the Sugar Creek High School Alumni dance, the boys again were thrilled to find their treasury had been increased by $2.00.

At last meeting, the following officers were elected to lead the Whirling Notes Music Club to even greater successes: Vice-Pres., Robert Eisenbrant; Secy-Treas., Bob Karr.

All boys who are interested in learning to play any musical instrument which they might have, See Mr. L. Worsley.

Dear Friends of Whatsoever,

I am excited to report that Thursday May 6, 2010, the first day of "The Apollo Project" was a success! Seven music students ranging in age from seven to fourteen eagerly and attentively experienced their first music lesson. It was my pleasure to witness their eyes widen as they handled an instrument for the first time. Among the instruments of choice were piano, guitar, and drums. Some students are taking advantage of the free lessons and learning more than one instrument at a time. I know a little bit about Whatsoever history, and learning more everyday. I know that music has been a part of programming at Whatsoever for many years. As said in a 1943 newsletter, "Judging from the strains of violin music that floats through the halls on Thursday afternoons, the violin students of Miss Frances Hahn are progressing nicely." We are honored to offer music instruction once again. I would like to share some more snippets of the Whatsoever Beacon. This month's theme is inspired by music.

Sincerely,
Crystal Rice
